Aquino vows closure to human rights killings

By Nikla Dizon in Manila and Asia Pd., Aquino Plaza

PROSPECTIVE PRESIDENT elect Benigno Aquino III yesterday pledged after meeting with a high-powered group of European ambassadors to track down assassins involved in respectful killings, saying there must be a "closure" to the bloody chapter of unsolved murders in the Philippines.

Human rights, the peace process and foreign investment issues were among the topics discussed broadly during the meeting between Aquino and ambassadors and heads of mission from the European Union (EU), who paid him a courtesy call and congratulated him in the wake of his apparent election as the country's 15th President.

In Dasmariñas City, the newly installed secretary general of the United Church of Christ in the Philippines (UCCP), Welby Rueda Noriega O. Marjara, said the church was considering filing a class suit against President Macapagal-Arroyo to attain justice for church members killed during her administration.

Palace readies controversial Arlegui house for Noyoy

By Christine V. Esquiverra and Dena Z. Perez-Rogues

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo is preparing the presidential Laperal Mansion on Arlegui Street near Malabon as a possible official residence for her likely successor who has yet to decide up his mind on where he wants to live as president.

Prospective president-elect Ben. Rodrigo "Noyoy" Aquino III reportedly plans to take up residence at the Arlegui Mansion, like his mother the late President Corason Aquino did during her tenure, when he was sworn-office on June 30.

The Supreme Court, however, has handed down its final ruling, ordering the Arlegui property returned to its original owner, Tanika Laperal-Macdonaid, an elderly widow who was forced out of her home upon orders of the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos at the height

Tale of 2 flash cards: CDO authentic; Susano no-show

By Lella B. Salaverria

CANUYAO, LAGUNA—THE tale of two sets of suspect flash cards (CF)—one found in a junk shop and another in the hands of a losing lawbreaker—ended up to have different endings.

The four CF cards found in a Canyao de Oro junk shop were found to be genuine after they were tested yesterday at the facility of Smartmatic here and were repeated with specific encryption keys.

The cards did not appear to have been used for fraud, although, since they had recorded and transmitted accurate results.

"They are genuine. They were not tampered with. They were properly transmitted, why they were shown away, nobody can figure out," Makati Rep. "Indio" Locsin told sectors during the lawmakers' tour of the facility of Smartmatic, the technology partner of the Commission on Elections (Comelec).

The lawmakers, who got a first-hand look at the election system of Smartmatic, came away generally satisfied.

Pandacan Rep. Roda Golez said that since the cards had done their job, showing them away would not affect the outcome of votes.

But the contents of the two CF cards in the possession of Quezon City Rep. Mary Ann B-

He said that following the Omaha-based "Breed" nationally touring theater's changes should have also been filed against Paul Gorkovoy, Joe Miguel "Mito" Nery and artists-blazers Rodolfo Lora Jr. and Jose de Wacziarg, among others, who also conducted meetings regarding the breed-bird project.

1870-2010 340 years

Masaya, Maginhawa, Maunlad

In Makati every resident shares in the city's growth and development. Responsible governance, fiscal discipline and proper management of taxes has translated to quality programs and services in education, healthcare and social services, among others.

It's all about good governance

When Atty. Jejomar C. Binay was appointed OGC of Makati by President Corason Aquino after the EDSA People Power in 1986, he was immediately met with a challenge. The then municipality of Makati was bankrupt, with only P270 million in its coffers but with debts of about P200 million.

He purged the municipality's payroll of ghost employees. He met with the business sector and encouraged them to be responsible taxpayers. In return, Binay assured the business sector that government will not meddle in business affairs. Likewise, he promised programs and projects that will benefit every constituent in Makati, including the business sector.

Binay's brand of good governance has made it possible for Makati's budget to go from P270 million in 1986 to P10.9 billion in 2009.

Go Green Makati

A healthy city is a green city. The city government has invested in various environment programs that ensure a clean and green Makati. The city government has been conferred numerous awards for its exceptional solid waste management and for its efforts to curb air pollution. The Makati City Government has even been named as one of the Climate Resilient Cities by the World Bank for its various programs to address climate change.

Along with Greenpeace and the Green Movement

Independent Power Producers, Inc (GSPPP) Makati became the first local government to introduce electric jeepneys, which now ply routes in the Makati's Central Business District. These emission-free vehicles are part of the city's response to the call of addressing climate change.

The Great Equalizer

Mayor Jejomar C. Binay has always believed that education is the greatest social equalizer. A product of the country's public school system, Binay knows firsthand the importance of providing every citizen, most especially the poor, with quality education.

In Makati, the city government shoulders the tuition of students from elementary to college. Elementary to high school students are likewise given free school supplies, bags, uniforms, textbooks and workbooks. School buildings and facilities are comparable, if not better than, most private schools.

Jobs and skills training

The city government has put in place livelihood training programs where residents learn skills that could help them set up their own small businesses and secure gainful employment, here and abroad.

Partnerships with the private sector allow students at the University of Makati (UMAR) to secure hands-on training in highly specialized skills needed by partner companies and industries, ensuring their guaranteed employment after graduation.

In Makati, every citizen has the chance to be productive and be a part of city and nation building.

Health for all

In Makati, hospitalization and medical services are free for indigents. The city government likewise provides free health insurance and subsidized healthcare through the Makati Health Plus Card (Yellow Card).

The city government has likewise enrolled poor Makati families in the Philippine Health Insurance Corp. (PhilHealth), allowing them to get medical attention from any PhilHealth-accredited hospital or clinic nationwide.

Mayor Binay believes that it is the city government's responsibility to provide every citizen access to good healthcare services to keep the citizenry strong and healthy.

Unparalleled Growth

The city government continues to find ways to better serve the people of Makati by investing in new infrastructure and innovative programs.

The city takes pride in state-of-the-art buildings and facilities for the use of the people. Recently, a new wing has been built at the Capital ng Makati to accommodate the medical needs of the people. And already there are plans of building a Women and Children's Hospital in the first district of the city. The incoming administration of Mayor-elect Jejomar Erwin Binay also plans to tap the private sector in managing the city's public hospitals and health facilities.

The city government also plans to build additional schools and other public buildings, strengthen its "education for employment" programs and take the first step in making Makati a "wireless city" providing constituents with access to the boundless information on the internet.

In Makati, the highest good of the people is always top priority.

Panic grips area near international airport due to gas leak

By Rita Collaps

A DESTRUCTIVE GAS EXPLOSION caused a leak at a station of the Manila-Nagpur near the Metro

Agencia International Airport in Manila City early Monday morning, prompting authorities to temporarily suspend public transit nearby roads.

Senior Press Officer 2 Rita Collaps, operations chief of the Metro City Bureau, said the leak occurred around 5:30 a.m. at the Manila-Nagpur station.

At the station of Manila-Nagpur, the leak caused a gas leak, and the station was closed, and the affected passengers were evacuated.

Lawrence said after clearing down the main hall of the station, the station was closed, and the affected passengers were evacuated.

The leak was contained at around 7:30 a.m. So, the gas leak was not a major problem, but the station was closed for a while.

Metro will stay green under my watch—Inocentes

By Rita Collaps

EVEN IF THE BRAND COLOR of the new administration is yellow, Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) Chair Oscar Inocentes on Monday said he was sticking to green, the color associated to "environment care" and the campaign of a losing presidential candidate.

"We are not going to use the color of any new and I would still stick to green and yellow," Inocentes said in a statement.

At the start of the campaign period for national candidates only this year, the MMDA chair was said to be supporting the administration party closely backed by Inocentes' brother, Mayor Isko Moreno.

Inocentes especially denied the speculation that he was going to go to the "yellow" side of the campaign. He said he was sticking to green.

The MMDA was launched in 1995 with the slogan "Go Green, Go Home," a slogan of Metro-wide road job, fire-prone areas, and sustainable building programs.

"If they (administration) would go to the yellow side, we will support them. But if they go to the green side, we will support them," Inocentes said.

Below was the campaign color which

GREEN-LIGHTED Inocentes is in favor of the Ayala Technohub on Commonwealth Avenue, Quezon City.

Inocentes' brother, Mayor Isko Moreno, is also a candidate for the 2016 elections.

In a previous interview, Inocentes brushed aside the idea of a "yellow Metro Manila" saying the color would be a sign of the end of the world and would not be a sign of the end of the world.

Inocentes said the Commission on Audit (COA) will not allow the MMDA to use the color of the COA. The point on government buildings must be visible from the street.

The color change, he added, would also mean additional material and manpower costs.

Caloocan schools checked for exits, fire extinguishers

By Beverly T. Manalad

CALOOCAN CITY BURNED HAVE YEARS of teaching public schools, particularly for the first and second graders in preparation for the opening of classes this month.

Caloocan City Mayor-elect Romeo Trono on Monday ordered the inspection of public schools in the city before students return to school.

The inspection was ordered in the light of the rising number of fire incidents in Metro Manila on account of the overcrowding and outdated facilities.

The city inspector, said Trono, was ordered to make sure that schools have fire exits and a complete set of fire extinguishers, and that they can be properly used during emergencies.

The local government will make sure that school buildings and fire exits are in good condition and that they are in good condition.

Inocentes said that before the students return to school, they had conducted fire and earthquake drills in the city's 20 public schools to reduce the chances of any school-related incidents from occurring in these places.

COLORFUL PREPARATION

Children in all colors and costumes are making their way to school in Caloocan to prepare their children only for classes that will start on June 11. It is also for the first time.

Deal subject to 'diplomatic sensitivities'

By Abigail M.

THE PHILIPPINES IS EXPLORING THE POSSIBILITY of forging a bilateral agreement with Taipei, with talks to start between the two governments this week at the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation trade ministers' meeting in Japan.

Trade Secretary Arlo Lopez said the talks would be done on the sidelines of the meeting and nothing final was expected to be finalized.

"We're talking as far as bilateral agreement, and we'll discuss that on the sidelines. It's not even to that, but we just some Cooperation Framework Agreement," we'll also be exploring a bilateral deal with Taiwan. But we'll just be exploring, everything's subject to diplomatic sensitivities," he explained.

Since there was a significant number of Taiwanese companies doing business here, he said an agreement between the Philippines and Taiwan would help well for the country particularly in the aspects of investment and trade.

In the first nine months of the year, the country's exports to Taiwan almost doubled to $123.5 million from $127.1 million in the same period last year.

Statements from Taiwan's Ministry of Economic Affairs showed that during the period, with the country increasing its exports to Taiwan by 94.1 percent, the Philippines was Taiwan's 17th biggest export.

In terms of imports, the country received $201.3 million of its imported goods from Taiwan in the first nine months, up 36.6 percent from the $147.2 million registered in the same period a year ago.

SMC sees higher profit in 2010

By Derek C. Dumalan

ASIA MICHEL COMBINE MARCH 4 even closed this year the P13.6 billion net profit forecast last year as the conglomerate moves to convert synergies from a portfolio of new acquisitions.

"In 2010, I think it will be better than 2009," said SMC president Ramon C. Ang told reporters.

Ang said it was possible that last fiscal year would even top last year's net profit because the conglomerate would also have extraordinary gains from assets such as that of a substantial stake in local energy firm Alugan, Para Power Co., and packaging unit San Miguel Ysmaera Packaging group.

Last year, San Miguel posted a record net profit due mainly to the sale of a substantial stake in Baguio-based San Miguel Brewery to Oishi Holdings of Japan.
